

BROOKLYN GASTROENTEROLOGY AND ENDOSCOPY ASSOCIATES

Committed to Excellence in Care!

CONVENIENTLY LOCATED OFF THE BELT PARKWAY, BETWEEN Manhattan Beach and Sheepshead Bay, this modern, state-of-the-art facility provides a multidisciplinary approach to the treatment of gastrointestinal disease. Three board-certified gastroenterologists who have worked together for more than 10 years provide all services related to gastroenterology, endoscopy, liver and pancreatic disease. Adjacent to a newly constructed, advanced, accredited state and federally licensed ambulatory surgical center focusing on endoscopy and colonoscopy, the practice employs a dietician, psychotherapist and pathologist to provide a broad range of care for patients.

Scott Tenner, M.D., MPH, FACG, medical director of the facility, also serves as an associate professor of medicine at the State University of New York and as director of medical education and research, Maimonides Medical Center. Dr. Tenner serves on the Research Committee, Educational Affairs Committee and National Affairs Committee for the American College of Gastroenterology. Having published more than 300 papers, abstracts, books and chapters in gastrointestinal disease, Dr. Tenner speaks at many national conferences on various topics. His education and research focus is on pancreatic disease, colonoscopy and practice management.

Robin Baradarian, M.D., FACG, serves as an assistant professor of medicine at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine and concurrently serves as chief of gastroenterology and director of interventional endoscopy at Beth Israel Medical Center, Kings Highway. Dr. Baradarian also serves as co-director of The Greater New York Endoscopy Surgical Center. Dr. Baradarian has authored numerous research publications and won prestigious awards in medicine. Aside from the management of liver, pancreatic and gastrointestinal disease, Dr. Baradarian specializes in endoscopy, colonoscopy, advanced endoscopic therapeutic procedures, large colon and gastric polyp resection as well as endoscopic ultrasound.

Susan Ramdhaneey, M.D. recently moved from the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center to Brooklyn Gastroenterology and Endoscopy Associates and The Greater New York Endoscopy Surgical Center. Dr. Ramdhaneey is one of the few female board-certified gastroenterologists in Brooklyn, and has received numerous awards for her academic excellence on national and international levels. Her work has led to multiple papers, abstracts and chapters on pancreatic disease and therapeutic endoscopy.

This team of gastroenterologists, dedicated to excellence in patient care, medical education and clinical research, offers the community of New York a high level of complex care tempered with a compassionate, intimate approach. It provides the best technology and maintains the heart representative of Brooklyn.
